ABSTRACT

The Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System's annual report and statistical supplement provide information on a variety of issues. The annual report addresses the following areas: educational reforms to raise standards; faculty salaries; research funds; utilities and insurance costs; increasing nonresident tuition; academic programs, student financial aid, and facilities development. Data are provided on fall 1983 headcount enrollments for public and private institutions, the Texas State Technical Institute, and medical, dental, and allied health schools, as well as on average budgeted salaries for public community college and university faculty, 1979-1980 to 1983-1984. Appendices include information on college programs approved and withdrawn by school and level; a bibliography of Coordinating Board publications by topic; and data on Coordinating Board expenditures. The statistical supplement for 1984 includes information on student enrollments, faculty data, semester credit hours, physical facilities, appropriations, and state loan and grant programs. Student headcount enrollment data are presented by classification, ethnic origin, and sex, along with distribution of resident and nonresident students, and county and state of origin of students. 1984 Annual Report for the fiscal year ended August 31

Coordinating Board
Texas College & University System

Kenneth H. Ashworth, Commissioner of Higher Education

Letter from the Chairman

The Honorable Mark White, Governor of Texas
The Honorable William P. Hobby, Lieutenant Governor of Texas
The Honorable Gib Lewis, Speaker of the House of Representatives
Members of the 69th Legislature

Texas higher education in 1984 began to refocus its energies toward meeting the demands of a more technological society. While continuing its commitment to quality, the Coordinating Board sought to guide the prudent investment of state resources in an era when education will be vital to diversification of the economy.

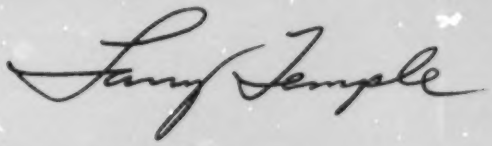
With enrollments remaining relatively stable, the Coordinating Board set the stage for a systematic review of the status of higher education program offerings. Procedures for a comprehensive study of the role and mission of each of the state's 37 public universities were being prepared as the fiscal year ended. The Board emphasized that financial constraints must not prevent higher education from responding to state needs, but that colleges and universities must prepare to redirect resources rather than to focus on expansion.

Among the areas targeted for improvement by the Board in 1984 were faculty salaries and state support of research. In its formula recommendations for financing public colleges and universities, the Board proposed funding at a level to provide that faculty salaries would remain slightly above the national average. Significant increases also were urged for organized research, which provides seed money to attract additional research grants to Texas universities. In addition, the Board supported efforts for ratification of a state constitutional amendment to assure greater equity in the funding of campus construction at public universities.

This Annual Report describes Board activities in 1984 to encourage academic quality, cut costs where possible, and strengthen coordination and cooperation among the state's institutions of higher education. The statistical supplement to this report contains data on enrollments, funding and programs.

The Coordinating Board and its staff appreciate your continuing support in promoting the progress of the state through careful development of its higher education system.

Respectfully submitted,



Larry Temple
Chairman

The Coordinating Board

The Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, is a statutory, 18-member board appointed by the Governor. It is responsible for statewide planning and policymaking to assure quality and efficiency in Texas higher education. As required by law, the Board met quarterly in Austin in October 1983 and January, April and July 1984. A special called meeting was held in Dallas in December 1983.

The Texas Legislature created the Board in 1965 and has continued to add to its statutory responsibilities since that time. The Board's primary responsibilities are academic and health affairs, financial planning, student services and campus planning.

The Board:

- Approves or disapproves all degree programs of Texas public colleges and universities.
- Recommends the establishment, discontinuance or combining of public institutions.
- Authorizes elections for the creation of public junior college districts and adopts standards for their operation.
- Develops and recommends formulas to the Governor and Legislative Budget Board for their use in determining legislative appropriations and equitable distribution of state funds to colleges and universities.
- Supervises planning, utilization, evaluation and reporting of academic development.
- Recommends policies for efficient use of construction funds and orderly development of physical plants.
- Administers the state's college student loan program and other financial aid programs and a higher education uniform insurance benefits program.
- Administers the family practice residency training program for improving the distribution of family physicians in Texas.
- Assesses educational supply and occupational demand for graduates of Texas post-secondary education institutions.
- Develops transfer curricula in various disciplines to facilitate the transfer of students among public institutions.
- Grants certificates of authority to grant degrees to private unaccredited institutions that meet state educational standards.
- Restricts the operation of substandard or fraudulent institutions in the private sector.

Education reforms expected to lift standards

As Texans in 1984 directed much of their attention toward assessing future needs of the state and its institutions, it became increasingly clear that higher education will be depended on as a primary resource to fuel a historic transition to a more diversified economy.

The Texas Legislature met in special session in June and July to pass reform measures aimed to invigorate the state's educational climate and prepare it for leadership in future enterprises that will require a better-educated citizenry. Although the new laws are focused on primary and secondary education, they are intended to promote higher standards at the postsecondary level as well, and they include new loan programs to attract outstanding students to college and university programs in teacher education.

The Coordinating Board in 1984 promoted progress in other areas vital to maintaining the state's competitive position in higher education. In recommending 1986–87 legislative funding formulas, for example, the Board emphasized the need for greater support of basic scientific research and faculty salary levels.

It became apparent, however, that Texas institutions of higher education must face the prospect of shrinking state revenues for carrying out their plans. The Coordinating Board came under growing pressure to implement new methods, and refine existing ones, to encourage efficient and coordinated management of the higher education system.

The Board concentrated on several factors to help reduce the escalating costs in higher education:

- It contracted for development of a strategy to reduce campus energy costs through energy-saving measures and alternative budgeting practices.
- Board procedures were changed to guarantee more intense scrutiny of proposals that may involve substantial state funding, such as new institutions, graduate schools and doctoral degree programs.
- Working with college and university officials, the Board withdrew approval of courses that were inactive or not implemented.
- Groundwork was laid to establish Board guidelines in 1985 on televised courses for credit. The guidelines will discourage duplication of effort, in addition to assuring quality.
- The Board also prepared for 1985 adoption of procedures for formal definition of the scope of programs at each state university. The documents will aid the Board in evaluating whether a new program proposal is consistent with statewide coordination.

Upgrading facilities

The Board also worked for a long-term solution to building construction and repair costs by endorsing a constitutional amendment that (1) creates a fund to provide $100 million annually to state universities outside the Texas A&M and University of Texas systems and (2) opens the Permanent University Fund to all institutions in those systems. The amendment was placed on the statewide ballot for the November 1984 general election.

Early in the 1984 fiscal year, the Board published a study, Facilities Condition Survey, Texas Public Universities, identifying $300 million in needed rehabilitation and repair at 25 universities, including many projects required to meet existing safety and fire codes. Securing funds for the projects may be eased by new sources of revenue available under the constitutional amendment.

Improvements to the campuses of Texas Southern University and Prairie View A&M

University continued as prescribed by the statewide desegregation plan. The Board delivered a progress report on implementation of the plan to legislative leaders June 1.

Slower enrollment growth

Fall 1983 enrollments were up by slightly more than 4 percent at all Texas higher education institutions (see table), a slowdown from the previous fall, when combined enrollments jumped by nearly 6.3 percent.

Public and independent community/junior colleges experienced the highest rates of growth, while enrollment decreased at independent universities and independent medical and dental schools.

The U.S. Census Bureau has projected that the population of Americans 18 to 24 years old will decrease by 18 percent between 1982 and 1992, with the population of 18-year-olds alone decreasing by 24 percent.

Higher admission standards recently have been put into effect or are planned at many public universities in Texas. Some are seeking not only to raise standards but also to cap their enrollments at manageable levels.

New community college created

Voters in Camp, Morris and Titus counties approved Jan. 21 the creation of the Northeast Texas Junior College district by better than a 2 to 1 margin. They also authorized the district to issue bonds and levy a property tax for maintenance and bond retirement. The 48th community college district in Texas is scheduled to begin classes in fall 1985. It is the first to be established since 1972 when North Harris County College was created.

Faculty salaries, research funds stressed

Although state appropriations to higher education for the 1984–85 biennium were up 22.7 percent from the previous biennium, the already urgent need to make the most of limited resources began to press even harder. As fiscal year 1984 ended, forecasts for 1986–87 showed the state government would be short of revenue despite having just increased taxes for the first time in over a decade. The level of state spending for 1984–85 was sustainable only by tapping one-time sources, including a sizable beginning balance in 1983, according to the Legislative Budget Board. Higher education appropriations for 1984–85 totaled $5.8 billion.

Formulas for 1986–87 higher education funding were approved in January by the Board for recommendation to the 69th Legislature. The proposed formulas reflect a commitment to continued improvement in faculty compensation and a desire to ameliorate deficiencies in organized research funding. A general commitment to encourage investment in academic quality guided the Board's 1986–87 budget request, approved in July. The bulk of the request consisted of funds to be trusteed to the Board for various higher education programs, including subsidization of private medical and dental education and grants for needy students at private colleges and universities.

Maintaining competitive salary levels

Higher education funding formulas recommended by the Board for the 1986–87 biennium call for increases in the Faculty Salaries formula of 9 percent the first year and 6 percent the second. Board policy since 1981 has encouraged the maintenance of faculty salaries at levels just above the national average. In the 1983–84 academic year, faculty salaries at Texas public colleges and universities rose an average of 4 percent, slightly ahead of a 3.2 percent annual inflation rate as measured by the Consumer Price Index in November 1983.

The Board adopted a formula to generate funds for faculty development leaves, a program approved by the legislature in 1971 that has never received funding. The program is intended to provide opportunities for faculty members to develop new skills, to improve quality of instruction and to aid institutions in attracting qualified faculty members.

To keep pace with a critical and growing need, the Board advocated a sizable increase in formula-generated funding for organized research, from $9.2 million in 1985 to $34 million in 1986. A further increase of 5 percent was recommended for 1987. Formula funding for research in 1984 totaled less than $9 million, and the 3.7 percent increase for 1985 was considered unlikely to offset inflation.

Lagging support for academic research in Texas also occurred at the federal level. The Board compiled data showing that the federal share of total funding of research efforts at the state's public colleges and universities dropped in 1983 to its lowest level in 10 years. The last annual increase in the federal share was in 1980.

If fully funded by the 69th Legislature, the proposed state formulas would generate approximately $2.7 billion for 13 areas of operation at the state's public universities and for general academic programs at public community colleges. That amount is approximately $443 million over current funding levels.

Other formulas approved by the Board recommend improved funding for general institutional expenses; library, general administration and student services; plant support services; building maintenance; custodial services; and grounds maintenance.

The Board voted to use a 6 percent escalation factor to determine formula funding for general academic programs at the two-year institutions.

Request for trusteed funds

In adopting its proposed budget for the 1986–87 biennium in July, the Board voted to request appropriations of $119.6 million to help meet the costs of a variety of medical education programs. The funds would be trusteed to the Board for allocation, and the majority would be invested in undergraduate programs—$60.2 million at Baylor College of Medicine and $27.1 million at Baylor College of Dentistry. Another $15 million would be allocated to Baylor College of Medicine for residencies, and $16.5 million is earmarked for component programs of the statewide Family Practice Residency Program.

Appropriations of $54.5 million will be sought for financial aid to students. Of that sum, $53.9 million is for tuition equalization grants for needy students at private colleges and universities, with the remaining $600,000 to be set aside for scholarship funds for the educationally disadvantaged.

The total amount of trusteed funds to be requested for 1986–87 is $191.9 million, or approximately $20 million more than the 1984–85 figure. All the amounts are calculated to meet statutory requirements for funding the programs.

Coping with costs of utilities, insurance

In April the Board authorized the Commissioner of Higher Education to allocate the contingency fund for utility bills owed by public universities and health-related institutions during fiscal years 1984 and 1985. Because of the difficulty in projecting increases in utility bills during the biennium, the 68th Legislature set aside a $23.3 million contingency fund to cover costs which exceed the individual institutions' appropriations. Eleven academic and four health-related institutions initially estimated that $13.2 million will be required from the fund to pay 1984 utility bills.

Colleges and universities also reported problems in meeting employee insurance costs. This prompted appointment of an ad hoc committee to advise the Administrative Council of the Higher Education Insurance Program on possible solutions. Recommendations will be made to the 69th Legislature to allow the institutions greater flexibility in providing coverage and to encourage the use of cost-saving incentive systems.

Nonresident tuition raised

Modest tuition increases for out-of-state and foreign students were enacted in the Legislature's summer special session as lawmakers sought to support education reform and to ease budgetary pressures. Two-step increases for nonresidents will take effect in the fall semesters of 1985 and 1986. The measure represented a compromise over a proposal to raise tuition across the board and tie the increases to a percentage of legislative appropriations for higher education.

As part of the compromise, the House Committee on Higher Education was directed "to develop a plan for a reasonable and equitable increase in tuition at all institutions of higher education in the state." The committee's recommendations are to be presented to the 69th Legislature in January 1985.

Public community college budgets were affected by actions taken by the Legislature in summer 1984 to improve the state's cash management. A special contingency fund was established to be administered by the Coordinating Board to prevent the colleges from losing anticipated interest income for fiscal year 1985 due to the modification of procedures.

Southern Regional Education Board

Desiring to reduce the cost of participation in the Academic Common Market of the Southern Regional Education Board, the Coordinating Board voted in July to seek a modification in the market's reciprocal tuition setup. The SREB common market is an arrangement among 13 Southern states which allows students to pay resident tuition rates in public universities in member states when certain degrees are not offered in their home states.

Texas is a net importer under the program. While 54 students came to Texas from other states under the arrangement during the 1983–84 academic year, only five Texans took advantage of it to study in the other states. Although Texas probably lost more in tuition discounts than it gained in the exchange, the expense of offering the degrees that Texas students sought in other states would be considerably higher.

The Board authorized Commissioner Kenneth Ashworth to propose to the other common market participants that students pay tuition at the resident rates of their home states rather than that of the states in which they are enrolled. Texas rates generally are lower.

Agreement near on roles of universities

The Board made progress in 1984 on several key projects associated with its legislative mandate to promote academic quality in Texas higher education while discouraging needless duplication in the use of state resources.

Details of a plan to formally establish the scope of academic programs at each state university were unveiled for likely Board action in 1985. Role and scope statements will aid in assessment of program needs at each campus and in comprehensive statewide planning.

Guidelines for televised course instruction also were taking shape as fiscal year 1984 ended, and the Board announced its intention to put policies in effect during 1985 to maintain quality in that rapidly developing field.

Under new rules given final Board approval in 1984, certain kinds of potentially costly proposals must face intensified scrutiny, including creation of new institutions, departments and doctoral programs.

Role and scope statements

Proposed procedures for defining the role and scope of public senior institutions of higher education were presented to the Board in July in keeping with its statutory responsibilities. Development of role and scope statements, or statements of institutional mission, is being undertaken not only to help curtail unnecessary duplication in the schools' program offerings but also to assist them in strengthening quality in specific program areas.

The proposal was drafted with help from the specially appointed Texas Advisory Committee on Role and Scope and from a panel of out-of-state advisors. Suggestions from representatives of Texas public universities also were incorporated.

The plan calls for a role and scope statement for each institution, consisting of four parts—a table summarizing the programs that are within the institutional mission, a description of the mission, a brief narrative history of the school with information about its current status, and additional background information regarding the institution's goals, objectives or aspirations for the future.

Guidelines on televised instruction

To guarantee that quality is maintained in the rapidly developing field of televised instruction for college credit, the Board prepared for the establishment of statewide guidelines in 1985. Proposed guidelines were unveiled in April based on the work of a special committee composed of higher education representatives and telecommunications professionals.

The Board also heard advice at its quarterly meetings from other college and university officials and from representatives of industries which rely on televised instruction for continuing education of specialists, such as engineers.

The Board's proposed guidelines focus mainly on ensuring that such courses offered for credit be of comparable quality to that of on-campus courses. They also address funding and planning requirements.

Scrutiny of costly proposals

As a result of Board action in January, new doctoral programs and other kinds of major proposals must undergo consideration at two quarterly meetings before they may gain final approval. The requirement applies to any proposal to create a new institution, graduate or professional school, health-related or veterinary school or engineering school.

The rules are designed to allow more thorough review of such proposals because of their potentially high costs to the state.

New degrees, schools requested

In 1984 the Board approved requests from 18 state universities to offer a total of 35 new degree programs. They included two doctoral programs, 12 master's, 15 baccalaureate, and six programs leading to associate degrees.

Both new doctoral programs are to be implemented at The University of Texas at Arlington. One, leading to a PhD with major in social work, will be the only doctoral-level social work program in the state with a clinical component. In the other new program at this level, UTA will offer the doctor of science in applied physics.

Three degree proposals were disapproved, including one each at the doctor's and master's levels. Universities withdrew nine more from consideration, including one doctoral and three master's programs.

The Board turned down requests from four universities to upgrade accounting departments into schools of accounting. Funding formulas would have required additional state expenditures for each new school.

Off-campus courses

Approximately 7 percent fewer off-campus course offerings for resident credit at the upper-division and graduate levels gained approval for the 1984–85 academic year compared to the previous year, Commissioner Ashworth informed the Board in August. A decrease of nearly 46 percent has occurred since 1978–79.

The 1984–85 total of 1,662 offerings is 129 lower than the 1983–84 figure, in part because institutions sought approval for 60 fewer offerings.

Transfer curricula

To help assure that students will not lose course credits when transferring from one public college or university to another, the Board has adopted transfer curricula in a number of fields over the past several years. In 1984, it updated the transfer curriculum in engineering and established new transfer curricula in criminal justice and in broadcasting, film and related fields.

Rules on private institutions

The Board voted in April to recommend that the Texas Legislature amend state law to close loopholes which allow unaccredited degree-granting institutions to operate in Texas while escaping review by any state agency or recognized accrediting agency.

The Board amended its own rules and regulations to call for a review of the operations of any private unaccredited degree-granting school whenever it offers off-campus more than half the courses needed for a degree program. The institution would not face review, however, if it followed the rules applicable to public colleges and universities which require them to obtain annual Board approval for all off-campus course offerings.

In accordance with its legislative mandate to award degree-granting authority to private unaccredited schools under specific criteria, the Board approved two-year certificates of authority to grant degrees for four such schools during 1984. Two other schools withdrew requests.

The certificates, which must be renewed every two years, are intended to protect students from fraudulent operations and to ensure that unaccredited institutions meet the Board's academic standards.

The Legislature authorized the Board in 1975 to establish standards for private unaccredited schools and to award them certificates of authority.

Examination of military base programs

A Board-appointed task force began meeting in February to discuss how Texas colleges and universities might implement complete degree programs on military bases in the state. Concern is shared by the U.S. Department of Defense over the quality of some degree programs currently offered on the bases by out-of-state institutions.

Because the federal bases lie outside of state jurisdiction, those programs are not subject to state educational standards. While the Defense Department has sought the services of public universities and health science centers in Texas, Board policy requires that one third of the course work in a degree program be undertaken on the campus awarding the degree.

The report was produced in compliance with sunset procedures initiated by the Board in 1982. Under the procedures, the Board may reexamine authorized programs and administrative changes that have not been implemented to ensure that they remain consistent with state educational needs. The sunset provisions do not apply to programs awaiting legislative start-up funds.

In April, the Board published a new edition of the Inventory of Academic Degree Programs.

New health affairs committee

Also convening for the first time in February was the newly appointed Health Professions Education Advisory Committee, formed to provide a framework for orderly planning in rapidly changing, highly technical fields.

The panel serves as an "umbrella committee" to advise the Board, its staff and a number of ad hoc groups addressing specific health education issues such as nursing, allied health and graduate education. The ad hoc committee structure will enable the advisory committee to address specific needs as they arise.

Major health education issues in coming years have been identified by the Southern Regional Education Board as the possible oversupply of health professionals, the increasing cost of health services and education and the need for health professionals in underserved areas.

Committee members include presidents and deans from Texas public universities and health science units; ex-officio members represent a number of health professional associations in the state.

Report on degree nomenclature

A special Board task force presented its findings in March comparing the content of degree programs leading to the Doctor of Education degree with that of PhD programs in Education. It concluded that distinctions in currently existing programs should be sharpened and recommended guidelines for the Board and its staff in considering requests for new programs.

Degree program inventory

A report to the Board in October 1983 showed that various institutions had marked for deletion from their inventories at least 24 degree programs classified as inactive or unimplemented.

A total of 59 degree programs and administrative changes authorized by the Board were inactive or had not been implemented, the report indicated. Institutions reported plans to implement at least 15 of the programs.

New priorities emerging for state programs

Students attending Texas colleges and universities in 1983–84 received approximately $50 million in financial aid administered by the Coordinating Board, roughly the same amount as the year before. Although the state stepped up appropriations for grant programs, federally funded grants were reduced, and there was a decrease in the number of loans sought through the states's Hinson-Hazlewood College Student Loan Program.

To help speed desegregation of Texas higher education, the Board implemented a scholarship program to expand aid available under a similar, previous program. In keeping with the state's heightened goals for teacher education, the Board undertook planning for two new loan programs authorized by the Texas Legislature.

New teacher education loans

As fiscal year 1984 closed, the Board was preparing to administer a pair of teacher education loan programs enacted in the 1984 state education reform bill. The Board voted preliminary adoption of proposed regulations in July, about two weeks after the bill was signed into law. Implementation is targeted for the spring semester of 1985.

Both programs provide for cancellation of loan debts. The cancellation features are offered as incentives to attract outstanding students to teaching and to solve teacher shortages in key subject areas.

The Legislature enacted the Teacher Education Loan Program to aid two groups—upper-division and graduate students of high academic standing, and working teachers who seek certification in subjects with teacher shortages. Borrowers could have their debts canceled by teaching in Texas public schools within specific time limits.

Similar requirements for debt cancellation would apply under the Future Teacher Loan Program. The Legislature authorized this program for undergraduate and graduate students who agree to become teachers in shortage areas.

The Legislature appropriated funds for both programs from the federal Lender's Allowance Fund of the Hinson-Hazlewood College Student Loan Program.

Growth of ethnic recruitment funds

As part of the effort to desegregate college and university campuses throughout Texas, the Board in 1983–84 implemented the State Scholarship Program for Ethnic Recruitment. The Board allocated $476,350 in scholarships to 673 students at 26 institutions—compared to $262,739 granted the previous year through the Legislative Academic Scholarship Program, which the new program replaced. The Legislature effected the increase by requiring that institutions provide matching funds.

Health education loans on rise

The Board administered slightly over $24.6 million in Hinson-Hazlewood loans in 1983–84, approximately $1.6 million less than the year before. These included Federal Insured Student Loans, Texas Guaranteed Student Loans, Health Education Assistance Loans and Auxiliary Loans to Assist Students. The number of recipients decreased by more than 1,800, to 10,733. Collections totaled $17.2 million.

Despite the overall decrease in funds loaned, in one of the Hinson-Hazlewood programs nearly twice the previous year's amount was awarded—$2.3 million in Health Education Assistance Loans. A total of 509 students in medical, dental and other health-related fields benefitted, compared to 285 the year before.

At a combined figure of $22.3 million, Federal Insured Student Loans and Texas Guaranteed Student Loans accounted for most of the Hinson-Hazlewood funds loaned by the Board in 1983–84; however, that was approximately $2.7 million less than the previous year's figure. The Board permanently stopped making new Federal Insured Student Loans after June 30, in accordance with a nationwide directive from the U.S. Secretary of Education.

Fourteen students received auxiliary loans in 1983–84. It was the first time the Board made such loans; it adopted provisions for them in 1982 when proposed federal requirements threatened to make certain graduate and professional school students ineligible for other loans.

The interest rate on auxiliary loans dropped from 14 to 12 percent, effective Dec. 2, 1983. The rate remained unchanged during the year, at 11.75 percent, for Health Education Assistance Loans. Rates also were unchanged, at 9 percent, for Texas Guaranteed Student Loans, and for Federal Insured Student Loans until they were discontinued. However, the Board in October 1983 ratified a reduction in those rates to 8 percent, effective Sept. 13, 1984. The new rate applies to Texas Guaranteed Student Loans awarded after that date.

Interest rates for Hinson-Hazlewood loans change according to federal regulations based on rates charged for 91-day Treasury bills.

Nonresident grants restricted

To comply with a rider to the 1984–85 state appropriations bill, the Board adopted provisions in January that deny tuition equalization grants to out-of-state residents unless they are National Merit Scholars. The grants, funded from state general revenues, are intended to assist students in meeting the higher tuition costs incurred at independent institutions. The amendments apply to such grants issued since Sept. 1, 1983.

State, federal grant totals

The Board administered tuition equalization grants totaling nearly $20.5 million in the 1983–84 academic year, surpassing the previous year's amount by about $1.5 million. The grants went to 17,383 students at 45 independent colleges and universities. Of those grants, close to 3,000 were matched with $2.1 million in federal funds provided under the State Student Incentive Grants program.

Federal incentive grant money also aided 4,801 students at public colleges and universities. The Board distributed some $2.3 million through the Texas Public Educational-State Student Incentive Grants Program to students at 67 institutions, using federal grant funding to match funds set aside by the state from tuition revenue.

Federal matching funds awarded in 1983–84 were down from the previous year both at independent and public institutions because the amount Texas received for State Student Incentive Grants fell by $760,000, to just under $3.3 million.

In 1984–85, however, the state expects to receive $4.1 million under the program. The Board authorized the allocation of that money, stipulating that, as in 1983–84, independent institutions will receive 61 percent of the total because of higher tuition costs.

Campus construction fund endorsed

Seeking "an equitable means of financing construction at all of the state's public universities," the Board in January unanimously adopted a resolution supporting the proposed constitutional amendment for funding campus improvements. Governing boards at public institutions around Texas had also endorsed the proposal by the end of fiscal year 1984, and a campaign urging final approval by voters was underway. Legislators had endorsed the measure in 1983, putting it on the statewide ballot for Nov. 6, 1984.

In Facilities Condition Survey, Texas Public Universities, the Board published data from a two-year study authorized by the 67th Legislature; the study confirmed long-range funding requirements of more than $300 million for repair and rehabilitation projects at 25 public universities. The problem of rising utility costs prompted the Board to contract for development of a master plan for energy investment for the University of Houston System; results will be reported for possible application by other higher education institutions.

Voting in January to endorse passage of the college construction funding amendment, the Board cited not only the facilities condition survey but also a lack of modern laboratory and teaching equipment, which the Board termed "a problem of critical magnitude." The Board's resolution further pointed out that the amendment provides for "responsible review of expenditure of state funds" and for development of distribution formulas "to assure continuing equity."

The amendment establishes a $100 million annual fund for universities outside the University of Texas and Texas A&M University Systems and allows all U and A&M schools to participate in the Permanent University Fund. It also broadens the use of construction funds to allow expenditures for repair and rehabilitation, purchase of library materials and teaching equipment and acquisition of property. Special provisions allow Prairie View A&M University to share in the Available University Fund.

Report on future needs

Facilities Condition Survey, Texas Public Universities was published in October as Study Paper 30. It contains assessments of the quality of campus buildings more than 10 years old and encompassing more than 10,000 square feet. The 25 public universities examined do not include The University of Texas at Austin or Texas A&M University. Although the study makes no funding recommendations and emphasizes that not all the buildings cited are in urgent need of repair, it does list cost estimates for each building.

The study results were furnished to the Governor's Office and the Legislative Budget Board to help determine future appropriations for campus improvements and to university administrators to facilitate long-range campus planning. The information also will assist the Coordinating Board in its review of institutional construction and renovation proposals.

Universities with the greatest repair needs, the study shows, are Texas Tech University, $46.2 million; North Texas State University, $38.3 million, and the University of Houston-University Park, $21.9 million. Repair estimates exceed $12 million at each of eight additional institutions. The $300.9 million total includes more than $63 million needed to meet fire and life safety codes.

Twenty-five campus construction and renovation projects gained Board approval in fiscal year 1984, with total costs estimated at more than $84 million. Seventeen property acquisitions by colleges and universities also were authorized; expected cost was $3.07 million.

An increase in the minimum cost of such projects requiring Board review took effect at the start of the fiscal year, going from $100,000 to $300,000 by act of the 68th Legislature. Lawmakers set the new minimum to keep pace with rising building costs and reduce the number of small-scale improvements the Board must review.

Campus construction and repair projects funded totally or in part by ad valorem tax revenues were ruled by Attorney General Jim Mattox in October to be subject to Board review, in an opinion reversing a December 1982 decision by then-Attorney General Mark White. White had stated that construction and repair projects financed at least in part with ad valorem monies were exempt from Board review. The Mattox opinion also reiterated statutory provisions that projects authorized by the Legislature are not subject to Board review.

The Board voted final adoption in July of an amendment to its rules for weighing emergency approval of campus improvement projects and for seeking advice on construction costs. The Vice-Chairman of the Board will serve on the special committee for emergency consideration of construction projects, along with the Chairman of the Board and the chairman of the facilities committee. The amendment also contains a section clarifying the Commissioner's authority to enter into interagency contracts with the State Purchasing and General Service Commission for evaluation of construction costs.

The Board began to assist the Legislative Budget Board in reviewing state universities' funding requests for proposed construction, repair and rehabilitation projects in the 1986–87 biennium.

Energy study, facilities inventory

To assist administrators in determining the potential for energy savings at their institutions, the Board and the University of Houston jointly awarded a contract to the Energy Task Force to develop an institutional master plan and monitoring program.

University of Houston officials will meet to construct a plan to take advantage of all cost-effective energy investments. They will review the system's financial strategy and budgeting process and seek alternative sources for funding energy projects. Energy investments will be monitored, documented and reported for possible application at other institutions.

The Board's facilities inventory workshop addressed problems encountered in developing and updating facilities inventory data. Some 75 representatives from 58 public and independent institutions in Texas attended discussions focused on surveying quality of buildings, assessing needs for major repair and rehabilitation and analyzing funding formulas.

The annual campus student housing survey indicated a 91.2 percent occupancy rate among public senior institutions statewide in fall 1983, down 2.2 percent from the previous year. At public junior colleges, the occupancy rate was 91.3 percent, a drop of .04 percent. Independent college and university campuses registered 89.8 percent occupancy, up 1.6 percent from the year before.
